We have in our store the handsome Fashion Portfolio issued by the American Ladies' Tailoring Co. It shows 24 suit styles, 18 skirt styles and 12 styles of coats.

Every style is shown in large plates, and in actual colors. Together they show the very cream of the fashions for Fall and Winter wear.

We also show 180 samples of cloth, including all the latest weaves. Any garment you select will be made to your measure in any one of these 180 cloths. Think what an enormous variety.

Our Guarantee

We guarantee you satisfaction in fit, style, workmanship and materials. The makers are obliged to take back any garment which is not up to the mark.

These are not such garments as some get by mail, from measurements they take themselves. The garments we offer have every man-tailored effect. They are made by experts of national reputation. They are made from complete and accurate measurements. You could not get better service if you went to the tailoring shops.

Half Usual Prices

Such garments, made by a small tailor, would cost from two to three times our prices. In fact, these made-to-measure garments cost little more than ready-mades. The reason lies in the enormous facilities of the American Ladies' Tailoring Co. They make a thousand garments to the small tailor's one. Their materials are bought in quantities direct from the mills. Please come and see this Portfolio, see the cloths, and see the prices we quote on the utmost in women's clothes.

Above we submit an attendance statement for all departments of the school for the first month. Please take time to make a brief study of the report.

The total enrollment is good and is about equally divided between the girls and boys. The per cent of attendance exclusive of the colored school is 97, let us make it 99 next month. The boys have a higher daily average than the girls, but the enrollment is the reverse. On the other hand the boys have made nearly two-thirds of the tardy marks—26 to 16.

In room 11 there was not a single case of tardiness among the girls.

The High school has an excellent record for attendance, 99 per cent for the entire month, but a rather bad showing in punctuality. There being 17 cases of tardiness.

In the grammar department rooms I and V tied in per cent of attendance; I had fewer cases of tardiness.

In the colored school the girls made a better record than the boys in every point.

The report for our first month is very encouraging and shows a remarkable progress in our work. The attendance was good, the interest noteworthy, and the recitations up to the standard. If everyone continues to try we can make our second month a banner month in the Oregon schools.

We hope that pupils will see to it that each is present every day unless hindered by causes beyond his control. Parents will please assist us in this matter of keeping your children interested in school. Talk to them about their school work; say a good word for the school and its faculty; call and visit us, you can get more reliable information about the school and its work from one day's visit than from a whole month of hearsay; urge and insist upon regular and prompt attendance, and attention to the daily lessons on the part of your children, let us impress upon our boys and girls, young and old, the importance of devoting the majority, at least, of our week day evenings to study, sleep and work about home, rather than wasting time, strength and brain power in playing, loafing, visiting and courting. We would in no way destroy the social life and buoyant spirits of our young people, but we are urging a division of time and energy between your social and home duties, and your school duties, neither pupils (above the 4th or 5th grades) nor teachers, can dismiss school from mind at 4 o'clock p. m., think nothing about school work until 9 o'clock next morning, and make a success of either teaching or learning. A true education is not lightly obtained and is of supreme importance. Five and one-half hours per day, five days in the week and but 36 weeks in the year, for only 12 years in a life time, are all too short a time for getting an education. Let us keep our school a business institution, run on business principles. The pupil has too much at stake, society too much involved, we have too much invested in school property, and our annual school expenditures are too large in Oregon (or any where else) for us to play at keeping school. "A thing of beauty is a joy for ever," but a beautiful school-room is more than a joy. It is practical, it cultivates good taste, inspires a love for the beautiful, incites to cleanliness, and improves the disposition. A cheerful school room increases the attendance. A clean school room adds to the health of the pupils. For these reasons we greatly appreciate the action of the board of education and community in having our building remodeled and put into excellent condition during the summer. Nor is this all. It is one thing to start with neat buildings and campus, and another proposition to keep same clean and neat. For this latter we owe a debt to our efficient janitor Jesse Hicks. We are certainly pleased with the results of your efforts, and, as teachers and pupils, we shall show our appreciation by aiding you, on our part, to keep a neat and sanitary building and grounds.

Our first literary program was, in every sense, a success. Each member presented the part assigned and the productions showed a careful and thorough preparation. They certainly set a commendable pace for succeeding meetings.

The pupils of room 11 in charge of their devoted and progressive teacher Miss Myrtle Peret, enjoyed a picnic,

Friday, after close of school. They took well filled lunch baskets and, through the courtesy of Mr. Benton, spent the evening in his pleasant grove east of the school building. The superintendent had the pleasure of accepting the invitation to be present, and, arriving at the luncheon hour, ate a square meal, rounded out to the corners, in his effort to sample all the lunch baskets. The party returned at sunset, all reporting a very pleasant time.

The regular annual meeting of the Holt County Teachers' Association will meet at Mound City Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week, and as all teachers are required by law to attend, our schools will be closed on the above dates.

These meetings are planned for the professional improvement and social acquaintanceship of all the teachers in the county. Some of the best educators in the state will be present and will give us the benefit of their wide experience in school affairs; the evening entertainments will be first class.

These fall associations held throughout the state each year are improving in quality and interest, and are valuable factors in the educational progress of Missouri. They would be still more helpful if more largely attended by school boards and patrons. The theory and practice of education should not be wholly left to the teachers. They are not the only ones interested in the education of the child, we need the suggestions, the personal interest and co-operation of those whom we serve.

Why not each school board elect at least one of their number to attend the association? Also each district might be represented by one other patron, not a member of the board. Some plan might be devised whereby such representation would become a permanent feature of the fall association.

Superintendent Reavis has prepared a very interesting program and a large, enthusiastic and profitable meeting is anticipated.

A lively base ball game was played Friday evening between O. H. S. and Forest City teams. The result was a close victory for our boys the score being 1-0. A proper athletic spirit and training are important factors in education and while our boys and girls are expected to prepare their lessons. They ought also to attend their athletics. The best pupils both play hard and study hard.

E. M. BROOKS,
Superintendent.

Spooners Take Heed.

A clergyman in one of our goodly sized towns in this part of the state, has served notice that spooning in and around his church must cease. He has his eye on the young men and women in the dark corners of the church, who squeeze each other's hands during the service. He has in mind the boys who wait on the steps outside the church 'till service is ended, and then asks the girls if they may see them home. This clergyman says that he shall insist on proper decorum, and the way he has said it, indicates that he means business.

For instance the minister declares that such practices tend to destroy the respect that young men should have for young women, and vice versa. Consequently, too many of them grow to be old bachelors and old maids. He regards an old bachelor an abomination, ill at ease with his neighbor and himself, and holds that an old maid is about as good round a house as a watch dog.

That clergyman ought to be upheld by every father and mother in his parish; in the whole city, and in fact everywhere for that matter. The lack of conventionalities in this country, leads to unwholesome familiarity, and familiarity breeds to contempt. There cannot exist deepest and purest love where there is not fullest respect, and this cannot be where minds have so far descended, as to find delight in "spooning."

Presbyterian Church Notes.

—The women's silver offering amounted to over $100.

—The synod of Missouri meets at Kirksville, Tuesday next. The railroads grant a reduced rate to the meeting.

—Everybody finds a cordial welcome with us, and always a word of cheer and help by the way. As you grow better, you will grow happier.

—Two weeks from Sunday will be communion. If you have no church home, come with us on that day. Bring the letter you have long neglected.

—The great state C. E. convention meets at St. Joseph next week. Get ready and go. Our society is among the largest in Northwest Missouri. Let us take our rightful place.

—Mr. Walton preached at Woodville Sunday night, and no services were held here. The services at Woodville have been well attended and the meeting has been exceedingly helpful.

—Those who attended Endeavor, Sunday, say it was the "best ever." Four new names were proposed and several will be proposed next Sunday. The society gave the Ladies' Aid society $5 and yet have money in the treasury. Miss Hattie Gelvin made a splendid leader. Miss Cora Rayhill leads Sunday.

—The audience, Sunday morning, was large and appreciative. Mr. Walton discussed the means of promoting a "revival of religion." He carefully distinguished this from a "protracted meeting," which may injure rather than help religion. Next Sunday, the subject will be continued under the title, "Being Filled With the Spirit."

THE PASTOR.

—Sunday evening last, Mrs. Lizzie Inghram struck a match under a table and the cover caught fire. The table stood near a window and in an instant the lace curtains were a mass of flames and other articles in the room were beginning to take fire, and had it not been for the timely assistance of the neighbors, the house would have burned to the ground. An alarm was turned in, but the fire was out when the hose cart arrived. The damage was slight and is covered by insurance.

—Judge Murphy appeared in the Kansas City Court of Appeals, Monday.
